Gymkhana series champions named

Inaugural season was a big success

One Sunday a month since last October, horseback enthusiasts top competitor in an event, nine to the second place rider, eight for third place, and so on, down to one point for tenth place. Each competitor also received five points for attending the meet. At the third, Wendy McPherson fourth and Krystal Jennison fifth. Tara Campbell was winner of the Youth I division, with Rylee MacKenzie second, Sarah Nutt third and Renee Nutt fourth.

Nora Wyman won the Open II category, with Colleen MacKenzie fifth, Dorothy Nutt sixth and Gail Werenka seventh.

The Elk Point Agricultural Society provided use of the C. G. Baker Arena for the series, allowing all entry fees to be used for prizes. Participants who were not Ag Society members paid arena charges in addition to their entry fees.

Open I champion was Jean MacMillan, with Debbie MacKenzie second, Arne Nelson third, Ruby Braconnier fourth, Janel Nutt

The series has been declared a success by Debbie MacKenzie and Ruby Braconnier, who spearheaded the pilot project and who plan to start another series in the fall. They also have a summer gymkhana planned for Sunday and Monday of the May long weekend.

asts from across the lakeland have converged on Elk Point to compete in the Winter Gymkhana Series.

Up to 47 riders have turned up to compete in barrel racing, pole bending, stake races, flag races and keyhole races. The gymkhanas were open to riders of any caliber, who competed in five groups, according to age and ability, mites age eight and under, two youth categories and two open categories. Riders were allowed to compete in more than one category.

At each gymkhana, ten points were awarded to the end of the day, all points received by each competitor were added up, and 40 points for first, 30 for second, 20 for third and ten for fourth were marked down toward the overall standings for the season.

Winners in the Mites category were Eric Nelson, placing first, and Courtney Galloway and Amanda Nelson, tied for second. Rylee MacKenzie topped the Youth II division, with Ashley Galloway second, Morgan Ferguson

■ Busy weekend ahead

Chamber sets Community Garage Sale date

Elk Point will be a hive of activity on Saturday, June 5. In addition to the annual Auto Club Show and Shine and the Elk Point 4-H Multi Club Beef Achievement Day, it has been set as the date of the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce Community Garage Sale.

Individuals and groups in and around Elk Point are urged to hold garage sales on that weekend, with the Chamber coordinating widespread advertising for the event. Posters and newspaper advertising will spread the word to surrounding communities, and maps showing the locations of the various sales will be handed out at several locations in Elk Point, all for a nominal registration fee. Call the Chamber at 724-2210 for more information or pick up a registration form at the Elk Point Review.

The Chamber now has a year-round telephone number, 724-2210, where information on Chamber membership, the garage sale and other projects may be obtained.

Although the Town of Elk Point has discontinued efforts to obtain the Pan Canadian Petroleum building, interest in the structure still exists among other area residents. A newly formed group called the Elk Point Regional Cultural Society has approached Pan Canadian to express their interest, and hopes to attract Northern Lights Library System to locate their new headquarters there. The fledgling society wants to see the building in use, and feels that many local groups could make use of its spacious meeting rooms. The Chamber of Commerce has agreed to send a letter supporting the proposal in principle, based on the Society's success in dealing with Northern Lights, and stating that the Chamber would only support the proposal if no cost were incurred to Elk Point's ratepayers.

Students spend spring vacation touring Italy

Three students from F. G. Miller High School left Elk Point on Tuesday, March 30 at 3:00 a.m. in an Alberta blizzard en route to a much warmer climate: Italy. Jamy Croteau, Brandon Parenteau and Danny Wentworth spent eleven days seeing the sights of Rome, Sorrento, Venice and points in between, returning Friday, April 9.

The lost city of Pompeii, the Vatican and Sistine Chapel, the Coliseum, Trevi Fountain, the Leaning Tower of Pisa, the famous canals and bridges of Venice were included in the tour, as the students journeyed by bus and train and on walking tours to sites dating back as far as the Roman Empire.

Friends of the Forts elect their 1999 executive

Pat Johnson has been elected for another year as the president of the Friends of the Forts, a society which helps to promote and assist with development of Fort George and Buckingham House Historic Sites. Rob Holliday was returned for a second term as vice president, with Carol Brown named the new secretary and Marvin Bjornstad staying on for another year as treasurer.

The Friends are looking forward to a busy season at the Forts, which will open May 15.

A special Seniors Day event is being planned for May 26, with reduced admission fees for seniors, tours and refreshments. The Edmonton House Brigade will be special guests at the Powderhorn Black Powder event on Father's Day weekend in June, and will live the lifestyle of the fur trade days in their camp at the Forts.

July 10 has been tentatively set as the date for the second annual Artists' Paint Out. Last year's Paint Out yielded a crop of excellent landscapes which were displayed at the Interpretive Centre throughout August.

Day camps for youngsters will again be held twice a week during July and August, and plans are underway for some very exciting sessions as the participants learn about the fur trade and life at the Forts.

The always-popular Forts des Prairies Jamboree will highlight the final weekend in August.

Adult craft courses are also being considered as part of this year's summer program.

Anyone interested in becoming a member of the Friends is invited to call Marvin Bjornstad at 724-2061 evenings, or come to the Friends' next meeting on May 5 at the Fort George and Buckingham House Interpretive Centre.

Clear the Air Campaign encourages Lakeland residents to make homes smoke-free

A province-wide initiative encouraging Albertans to make their homes smoke-free is well underway in Lakeland Health Region. The Clear the Air Campaign urges Albertans to refrain from smoking in the home. By making their home smoke-free, Lakeland residents can qualify to win numerous provincial prizes including a family cruise aboard Carnival's MS Paradise and weekend getaways to the Rockies.

While the prizes make this campaign a lot more fun, its purpose is to increase public awareness of the health hazards of second-hand smoke, according to Clare Gauvreau of Lakeland's Action for Health program.

Young children are particularly vulnerable to the health effects of second-hand smoke. Children of parents who smoke in the home have an increased frequency of hospitalization for bronchitis and pneumonia and other health problems as compared to children in smoke-free homes. Second-hand smoke also increases the risk of ear infections and asthma among children.

In all age groups, second-hand smoke causes irritation of the eyes, throat, nose and respiratory system. It's also associated with headaches, nausea and dizziness.

"It takes more than three hours to remove 95% of the smoke from one cigarette"

"People mistakenly believe that smoking in another room or opening a window will protect their families from inhaling second-hand smoke. Unfortunately, it just isn't so," Gauvreau says. "It takes more than three hours to remove 95% of the smoke from one cigarette from a room once smoking has ended. The only way to protect children and other family members from second-hand smoke is to make your home a smoke-free space."

It is also important to note that careless smoking in the home is the single greatest cause of fire mortality.

This is the second year the provincial campaign has been held. Last year, 1830 homes were registered in the region, putting Lakeland in second spot in the province with the highest number of participants.

Lakeland residents 18 years of age and over have until May 1, 1999 to register in the campaign by calling the 24-hour hotline at 1-800-905-5210. Only one entry is allowed per household. Prize candidates will be subject to verification and home air quality testing. Last year's participants have already been pre-registered in this year's contest and do not need to register again.

NOTICE FOR OBJECTIONS

APPLICATION NOS. 990135 AND 990136
CENTRA GAS ALBERTA LTD.
BONNYVILLE GAS COMPANY LIMITED
LATE PAYMENT PENALTIES

Take Notice that the Alberta Energy and Utilities Board (the EUB) may continue to process these applications without further notice if no valid objections are received on or before 21 April 1999

Nature of Application

Applications have been filed with the EUB by Centra Gas Alberta Inc. (now known as AltaGas Utilities Inc. effective 2 April 1999) and Bonnyville Gas Company Limited (the Companies) for approval to revise their service regulations respecting late payment penalties. The revisions requested by the Companies would reduce the late payment penalty from 5 per cent to 3.5 per cent. The revisions would also change the due date of bills from 21 days after the billing date to the billing date. However, no penalty would be applied to the account until the date of the next billing. Customers would therefore have at least 28 days from the date of billing to pay bills before the penalty would be applied to the account. Currently customers have 21 days from the billing date to pay bills without incurring the penalty.

It is a New Year! Time to make more resolutions!

Buddhists celebrate a new year today

By Deanna Easthope
FCSS Director

Happy New Year, everyone! Boy oh boy, am I ever off by a few months. Now, just a minute. Did you know that April 13 is the Buddhism Saka New Year, and the Judaism Yom ha-Shoah?

Either way, it is a good reason to celebrate. Spring is in the air and it is a good excuse to say happy New Year, everyone!

With all new years, one could be found making new year's resolutions. One possible new year's resolution could be the goal to manage our money better. After all, whether you have a lot of money or a little, managing your money is part of being healthy.

The first step in taking charge of your finances is making a budget. This shows you how much money is coming in and going out each month, and lets you see areas where perhaps you can cut back. The key to success is setting a realistic budget, one you can live with. For more information, talk to friends and relatives, or visit a credit union or other financial institution.

When you think about it, "We budget wisely by purchasing only items we really need and use." Now I know, in Elk Point, over the past year, we have had people lose their jobs and some have been unable to find new jobs. So, some people have been unable to purchase items they really need and use. In fact, I think some people have done a lot of financial stretching and have gone without some things. And some may have even had credit companies on their backs. All of this has not been an easy experience to live through.

But, in all experiences in life, we can learn something from each happening. For example, some of the "old timers" will remember the "dirty Thirties." There was very little money to go around. So what happened to those people after the Thirties? Some of those people became very cautious in how they spent their money. Their attitude was, "If you haven't got the cash to pay for it, you don't buy it."

As children of the "old timers," we became a credit buying people. Our attitude was to have what our parents didn't have — so "buy now and pay later." Besides, we wanted it now.

Fortunately, there is some wisdom in both attitudes. The extreme in both cases is not wise. The wisdom comes with the "realistic vision" of what we can and cannot afford.

So to all of you who are presently employed and those of you who have been able to become employed again, be careful and wise.

Like all new years — there is hope in tomorrow. Happy New Year, everyone!

AA District Roundup this weekend

Alcoholics Anonymous District 3 of Area 78 invites you, your family and friends to the 37th Annual District Roundup, to be held in St. Paul on April 16, 16 and 18, 1999 at the Mannawanis Centre, 4924 - 49 Avenue. Registration opens Friday, April 16 at 6 p.m.

Theme of the Roundup is "We Can Do What I Cannot!" Saturday banquet speaker is Duane T. of Calgary.

Alcoholics Anonymous is an international fellowship of men and women who have had a drinking problem. It is nonprofessional, self-supporting, nondenominational, and available almost everywhere. Membership is open to anyone who wants to do something about his or her drinking problem.

The primary purpose of AA is to carry our message of recovery to the alcoholic seeking help. Regardless of the road we follow, we all head for the same destination, recovery of the alcoholic person. Together, we can do what none of us could accomplish alone.

For further information, feel welcome to attend the Public Information/Co-operation with the Professional Community luncheon at noon, Friday, April 16 at the Chez Lyne Restaurant, 4906 - 50th Avenue, St. Paul.

Are you April-fooling yourself?

Thoughts for would-be weight losers

We all like to think we're doing our best to eat a healthy diet. But if you've got a problem controlling your weight, "you may be April-fooling yourself," said Carol Moro, a representative of TOPS (Take Off Pounds S e n s i b l y). "Your daily intake might be withholding necessary nutrition from your body," she explained. "This makes it harder to stay healthy and maintain your weight."

Ms Moro pointed out three typical practices that stand between you and the nutrition you need to reach and maintain a healthy weight.

1. Do you eat lots of processed foods? Hidden fat lurks in many of them. For instance, a half-cup of boiled potatoes has only 59 calories, but if the potatoes are french-fried, the calorie count jumps to 228.

2. Restaurant and take-out portions are "often much larger than serving sizes recommended by nutritionists. That "single" serving of meat might actually count as three or four portions.

3. The typical North American diet is deficient in fresh vegetables and fruits. This robs you of vitamins, minerals and fiber.

In their weekly chapter meetings, TOPS members learn more about good nutrition and support one another in establishing good habits. To find out about TOPS in Elk Point, contact Faye Smith at 724-2145. Or log on to TOPS' Web site at www.tops.org for that information along with weight loss tips, facts and success stories.

Volunteers put the "unity"...

National Volunteer Week, April 18 to 24

Dear Editor:

From April 18 to 24, communities across Canada will be celebrating National Volunteer Week. This week is set aside to thank and honor our communities' unsung heroes, those people who donate time and energy to help their fellow citizens and the causes they believe in.

Every day, volunteers take time from their work, leisure and home life to volunteer their talents and energies to solve problems in their communities. They are young, old and every age in between. They come from every economic group, from every race, religion and ethnic background. They share in common their citizenship and commitment to improving the quality of life for all.

As we approach a new century, we are confronted by many challenges that strain our capabilities as citizens and test our character as communities. Without our volunteer spirit, Canada would never have grown to nationhood. Without the concern of individuals for others in need, we would not have the innumerable public and private programs devoted to making a difference. And had it not been for the unselfish devotion to a cause, we would have been unable to defend and maintain our freedom.

In observation of National Volunteer Week, I encourage everyone to join with our thousands of volunteer community groups in celebrating volunteers — our greatest natural resource.

Yours truly,
Inky Mark, MP

Tree care and restoration

By Lois Hole
Garden Expert

Early one morning last Spring, I awoke to the sound of tree limbs cracking and crashing to the ground. Tree leaves, laden with heavy, wet snow were far too great a burden for the limbs to bear and the streets and backyards were soon strewn with branches and fallen trees. The Edmonton Storm was quite localized and pales in comparison to the enormous ice storm in the east, but the clean-up is the same. And once the fallen limbs and debris are cleared, then what?

Last year, when my favorite tree, a large American Elm, lost a limb during the storm, I sought the advice of Phil Croteau. He is a member of our staff who is a certified Arborist — one who specializes in the art and science of growing and managing trees.

Phil explained that the emotional attachment we have for our shade trees clouds our objectivity when they are injured. Anyone who has a majestic shade tree will likely be appalled at the notion of sawing its limbs or removing it, even if it is severely damaged. But, as Phil explained, emotions must yield to reason at a certain point because even the most beloved trees can be hazardous.

The Arborist's definition of a hazardous tree is one with a high potential for toppling or losing a limb, coupled with its proximity to objects it could hit, like homes, garages or playgrounds.

Hazardous tree assessment is rather difficult because the evaluation is somewhat subjective. Even the most skilled Arborist cannot predict exactly when a tree limb will crack and fall.

Certified Arborists have a standardized "Tree Hazard Evaluation Form" that comprehensively lists every characteristic of a tree that could cause it to fail. Starting with the obvious information like the species name, the form lists everything from trunk taper, to cracks, to exposed roots and even whether it has a bird nesting hole or a bee hive. Although diagnosis of the tree is mostly visual, specialized tools like wood augers may be used to take a core sample of the trunk.

Once the tree has been thoroughly evaluated, it is ranked numerically. A low score indicates that the tree is not hazardous, while a high score means that corrective measures should be undertaken.

So what is the best course of action if a certified Arborist deems your tree to be hazardous? Abatement strategies can range from removal of a precarious limb to sawing the tree down. But what if you choose to forego a professional assessment and decide to tackle the problem yourself?

My advice is to leave really large trees to the professionals who have the skills and the specialized tools required to safely deal with your tree. However, you may want to try some restoration techniques on your small trees.

If you don't already have them, consider buying a few high quality pruning tools. A pruning saw which is curved to fit into the awkward tight areas of a tree's canopy is a must. Secateurs, otherwise known as bypass pruners, are essential for removal of branches up to about 1/2 inch in diameter. Good secateurs will cost in the neighborhood of $50, but are well worth it. Cheap secateurs are practically biodegradable. The one other tool that is well worth the investment is a pole pruner. It's essentially a glorified secateur placed on the end of a telescoping handle that is capable of removing branches from as high as 20 feet up into the canopy. Believe me, when you use a pole pruner for the first time, you'll feel like you've died and gone to heaven. The less time you spend precariously perched on a ladder, the better.

Before you attempt your first cut, it is imperative that you understand the basic principles of pruning. A well-illustrated step-by-step instruction book is your best bet, along with some good advice from an experienced professional.

But acknowledging the fact that most of us cut first and query second, here's a few tips to get you by.

Never flush cut a branch if at all possible. In other words, a short branch collar should remain close to the trunk, but don't cut right up to the trunk. Neither flush cuts nor long stubs heal properly and both provide easy access for insects and diseases.

And forget the pruning paint. Paint of any type, according to the latest research, inhibits rather than promotes healing. It was probably originally used to satisfy our human need to seal wounds — perhaps a little anthropomorphism, dare I say.

Always cut large branches three times — one 1/2 inch deep cut beneath the limbs and about a foot away from the trunk, followed by a cut a few inches to the outside of the undercut but this time completely through the branch. The reason for the undercut is to prevent the branch stripping a large chunk of bark from the trunk as it falls. The last cut leaves the short branch collar that I alluded to previously.

Large limbs that are suspect structurally can be cabled. Cabling involves using hooks and steel cables to secure a weak limb to a strong one or to the trunk. It's not a good idea to use this technique on badly weakened limbs or those that could fall on, say, a car or a garage. Although removal of the limb may be disheartening, safety is paramount.

Whether you hire a certified Arborist to care for your tree or you choose to go it alone, just remember the two main objectives: the restoration of the tree's health and the preservation of yours.

Air cadet camp anniversary

Dear Editor:

The summer of 1999 marks the 50th Anniversary of Vernon Army Cadet Camp (Vernon Army Cadet Summer Training Centre) and on July 30, 31 and August 1, there shall be a celebration of this event.

Those who have attended Vernon in any capacity, whether Cadet, CIL/CIC Officer, Regular or Reserve Force call-out, and all support personnel - Transportation and Catering, are all a part of the Vernon family. Take the opportunity to call the toll free line at 1-877-388-VACC or check the website www.vacc.armycadet.com to discover how you can be a part of the 50th Anniversary.

The reunion brings together a group that shares a special experience with a focus on support for the Vernon camp by past and present members.

"Vernon Reunion 1999 Wants You."

Sincerely,

At long last, Doug says "Honey, I'm home!"

No ice, no snow... hockey season is over in Elk Point

By Doug Bassett
Review Sports

"Oh, another Sunday night, and I ain't got no story. I got no hockey games to cover and baseball hasn't started. And how I wish someone would call me. I'm in an awful way."

So, here we are, two weeks ago they pulled the plug on the ice plant and now I'm really starting to get the hockey DTs. Hey, where has all the ice and snow gone? It's going to be pretty tough sledding out there now. Green grass, that's not bad, that means golfing, soccer and baseball season is just about here. A week ago I couldn't see my back yard and already the grass is green. Well, sorta green, green grass and brown spots where my dog Scruffy has left his winter business. That's bad! How many times do I have to tell you to go do that at the neighbors!

My wife, Donna, thinks this is great, I'm home all the time so she keeps finding all these odd jobs for me to do, so I won't be bored. She thinks I'm Tim the tool guy. I keep telling her I'm not that handy. So I try to find excuses to go somewhere, to get out of work. I go for a walk with Scruff. I'm walking around town and I noticed all these young kids playing road hockey, the ones who aren't playing in the mud and water, getting all soaked. Spring break, they have been playing all day. One team's the Oilers, and one team is the Flames. So I stopped to ask, "who's winning?" They didn't know, and they didn't care, so there you go, more evidence that kids don't need rules to have fun. They didn't need parents to make the rules or pick the teams. The kids pick their own teams, if one team is too strong after a few goals, they move a player or two and even things up. Sometimes kids just want to play without parents interfering. You know, in some neighborhoods you can't even play road hockey? Why? Car's coming, move the nets. What's wrong with kids having fun?

We used to play road hockey all day too. We even played when I was in college, at lunch hour, in the school parking lot. Just like those beer commercials. Road hockey.

Day after day. One team was the Leafs and one team was the Canadiens. Everyone knows what team I'm on. My buddy Kevin told me someday they will cut me open and I will bleed blue and white.

I still remember the first time I went to Maple Leaf Gardens. I was ten years old. The Leafs were a team back then, in the early '60s, one of the Original Six. My uncle George was a big banker in downtown TO. You know those guys who wear conservative business suits and polished shoes. So he got four tickets for myself, my dad, my brother Don and good old Uncle George. They played against Montreal, of course. Standing room tickets, they were all you could get, so we watched the whole game from the top of the Gardens, leaning against the rail. It didn't matter to me, my first time at Maple Leaf Gardens. Toronto and Montreal. Johnny Bower is in the net.

Another time about ten years later I sat a few feet away from Harold Ballard and King Clancy in their little cubby hole. That's something I will never forget, and now the old Shrine is closed down forever. But, at least I can say, I was there.

Hockey Fix

On this past Saturday we did get a little hockey fix. In Mannville, we attended the North East League spring meeting. There's the usual problems, mostly with teams going to tournaments instead of scheduled games, which makes it tough to finish the league games. Next year, the league will try to cut down on the travel, especially in the Atom and Pee wee divisions. Easier said than done.

After lunch we had the Hockey Alberta Zone 2 meeting. All in all, it was a good year, and for our Zone, who won nine medals at Provincials, two gold medals going to St. Paul, one in midgets and one in bantams, Lac La Biche won two, one gold in bantams and one silver in atoms, Lloydminster a gold in bantams, Fort Saskatchewan and Vegreville both winning gold in peewees and Goodfish Lake a sliver in atoms. They also discussed the pilot project in Zone 2 for hockey associations' boundaries. If it works here, this may get passed for all of Alberta, at the annual meeting in Red Deer. Easier said than done.

Baseball time!

Now, since the grass is green, sorta, it's time for a little baseball news. Thursday there will be a baseball coaches' meeting, 7 p.m. at the A. G. Ross Arena. Then this coming Saturday is the free baseball skills clinic for all ages. Baseball registration can still be picked up at the Hilltop Motor Inn. Call Roger for more info at 724-4001. Please sign up so that team numbers can be determined for the league meeting. And an umpire clinic will be held on April 24 and 25. For more info, call Roger at 724-4001.

We are the One...

From early beginnings in the foothills of the Rockies in 1947, with a $4,000 investment, ATCO has become a public company which - in its majority - is owned and controlled by Albertans...

2.7 million people...

Alberta is our home... the people of this province are our customers, our friends, our families... and are important to us in everything we do.

660,000 square kms...

This very special place is impressive in its size, its beauty and diversity and is home to people of great spirit, enterprise and basic family values. No matter where you live or when you need us... ATCO is there to serve you with safe, reliable services and products that you can trust.

Some aspects of ATCO's businesses are not widely known in Alberta...

55,000 kms of power lines...

When you turn on the switches to power your homes, your farms and your businesses, it's comforting to know that ATCO is there, providing safe, reliable electricity.

40,000 kms of pipelines...

Beneath Alberta's grain fields, forests, cities, towns and mountain terrain lies an extensive transportation and distribution system. Quietly, safely and efficiently, ATCO's systems work around the clock meeting the natural gas needs of all Albertans.

5,000 employees...

Albertans working with, and for, the people of this province and beyond. ATCO's people bring expertise, experience, knowledge and enthusiasm to delivering the best quality products and services to millions of people here at home and abroad.

550 communities...

No matter the size; from drilling camps to hamlets, to villages, to towns, to major cities - we work and live in every Alberta community.

100 countries...

Gas distribution, processing and service; power generation and electrical service; workforce housing; national defence and technical expertise have taken us to every corner of the globe. From Canada to Great Britain... from Chile to Australia - ATCO is there!

50 years...

ATCO has been a great source of pride and opportunity for all Albertans for over 50 years. We have a tradition of going far beyond what anyone thought we would do... of having the highest standards and always striving for them... of paying attention to the smallest details... and of caring. In the years to come, Albertans can count on us to deliver this same commitment to excellence.

One name...

Tax Tips

Revenue Canada's requirement for keeping records

Revenue Canada requires that you retain your books and records relating to your income tax, employment insurance (EI) and Canada Pension Plan (CPP).

The records must be kept in Canada at either a person's place of business or a residence in Canada.

The definition of a record can include an extensive list. For example a record can include an account, an agreement, a book, chart or table, a diagram, a form, an image, an invoice, a letter, a map, a memorandum, a plan, a return, a statement, a telegram, a voucher and any other thing containing information, in writing or other form.

Records kept in electronic format must be kept in an electronic readable format, even when a hard copy is kept.

These records must be retained for a period as specified in the Income Tax Act, Employment Insurance Act and CPP for a minimum of six years from the end of the tax year to which the documents relate.

If the return is filed late, the retention period starts from the day that the return is filed.

With written permission from the Minister of Revenue, the records and books may be destroyed at an earlier date. This request can be made either by using a form T137 (Request for Destruction of Books and Records) or a written request can be used.

If a written request is used you must specify which documents are to be destroyed, which tax years the documents relate to, details of the justification for destroying the documents and any other relevant information. The Minister will then inform the taxpayer of its decision.

Helping to make ends meet!

Railway could close

Cold Lake changing shippers

By Rhonda Noyce
Staff Writer

Only three weeks after it began operations on the local track, RaiLink is questioning the viability of keeping its 434 km line afloat.

After meeting with 4-Wing Cold Lake and the surrounding municipalities last week, RaiLink manager Tim Husel discovered the air base wants to ship its jet fuel in by truck instead of rail.

"We will be losing half of our revenues," Husel said Friday. "Our whole liability (on this track) is on grain and jet fuel."

Lt-Col Boehme of 4-Wing said while undergoing a review of their fuel storage facilities they found a "significant" savings when the jet fuel is shipped in by truck instead of rail.

"We are estimating an annual savings of $2 million," said Boehme. "We are now preparing the necessary documents to go to tender to upgrade our storage facilities."

This means RaiLink will have until the late fall to fulfil the air base's shipping requirements. After that, the private rail company will no longer be transporting the base's 80 - 100 million litres of jet fuel per year.

"We're a short line railway. If the revenue isn't out there, we will have to find an alternative or the viability of the line is in jeopardy," said Husel.

Husel added they are looking into some potential contracts for shipping different products, but nothing is written in stone yet.

Transporting grain from Elk Point, St. Paul and the other elevators along the line will not be enough to keep operations alive on this stretch of the track.

St. Paul Agricore manager, Fred Skawronski said a couple of slow years in the area doesn't help matters.

During this drought, the local elevator has shipped about 200 grain cars out of the area on an annual basis. St. Paul Agricore has transported about 60 cars so far this year.

"A rail closure would affect us somewhat," said Skawronski. "All of the grain would have to be trucked out."

Husel said he's also heard of farmers in the area already trucking their grain to the main rail line in Vermilion, which could put other small town elevators in jeopardy.

St. Paul Mayor John Trefanenko said since we are an agriculture community and council has been pushing value-added products, they would hate to see the local line shut down. However, he doesn't see any alternative resources available to transport from this area.

"We hope RaiLink can make this local line viable, ... but if they can't, it is important that the provincial government has a long term transportation program in place," said Trefanenko. "As our railways close, the increasing heavy truck traffic is taking a real toll on our primary and secondary highways."

RaiLink is a publicly traded regional railway company based in Edmonton. The largest regional railway company in Canada purchased the track that runs through this area from Canadian National last August.

LRHA: another blow from Cuff

By Keith Robinson
Staff Writer

Management consultant George Cuff unleashed another backlash against former Lakeland Regional Health Authority board members last week.

In Cuff's 85-page document, which is the second and final instalment, he delineates the former board incapable of operating within provincial guidelines.

Health Minister Halvar Jonson ordered the study last year into the Lakeland region, which serves the area northeast of Edmonton to the Saskatchewan border.

In late February, Jonson dismissed the 15 board members after they voted to run a deficit rather than cut hospital beds or patient services.

That move followed the first part of Cuff's report, which estimated Lakeland's $100-million budget could be exceeded by $6 million. He recommended closing 19 hospital beds at Vegreville, Bonnyville and Lac La Biche and eliminating 100 managerial positions.

Since the board's firing, the LRHA has been run by the Westlock-based CEO of the Aspen Regional Health Authority, trustee-administrator Robert Cable.

Recently, Cable announced no hospital beds will be closed and that the 1998-99 deficit will still be under $2 million. To help make this a reality, 30 management positions will be eliminated across the region.

On the first page of Cuff's latest report, he re-emphasizes the previous board's inability to properly serve the residents of the Lakeland.

"We believe that the authority has not been well-served in terms of its leadership," he writes. "This stems from a lack of understanding as to the level of and quality of decision-making required to govern and manage a health authority within a reasonable budget envelope and policy guideline."

The extensive and detailed report clearly makes accusations of the board as:

- Being unable to "maintain stability" in the senior executive ranks.
- Lacking any long-term policies, of keeping poor track of expenses.
- Being in an almost continuous crisis mode.
- Holding too many closed-door meetings.

The consultant offers many seemingly valuable recommendations which include the reduction of the board from 15 to seven or nine members, fewer committees, specific "role statements" for the board and the CEO and a reduction from eight to two Community Health Councils (CHC) and that the new board openly acts upon submissions from the CHCs.

what's NEWS at the LIBRARY?

It's like we learned in kindergarten: sharing is good

By Karina Mitchell
Librarian

Did you know that we have access to all the libraries in Alberta, right here in Elk Point? That is a benefit of being a part of the Northern Lights Library System. We call it an Inter-Library Loan. Any subject or book that you are looking for that is not part of our Elk Point Library collection, can be searched on the computer catalogue. I then request the book from whichever library has it and they send it to us. We try to answer all requests for books as quickly as possible.

With your NLLS library card, you can take out books directly from any NLLS library. And you can return them to any other NLLS library that is most convenient to you. The list of libraries in the Northern Lights

Library System is growing with 24 library members, increasing the books and resources available to you.

So if you are looking for a book, talk to me at the library and we will see what we can find for you. It's like we all learned in kindergarten — it is good to share!

New Books at the Library...

Young Adults:
The Animorphs have found the location for the next ground-based Kandrona. The only problem is that it is to be near the North Pole. But the Animorphs aren't ready to give up the fight yet, no matter how cold it may get. The Extreme by K. A. Applegate.

Jessica doesn't seem the type to join the track team. She isn't one to mess up her perfect blonde hair, much less get all sweaty and smelly running the way you have to run in order to win... At least, that's what everyone else thinks. Soulmates by Jamie Suzanne.

For Adults:

When a marriage doesn't go as planned, a fortune is not bequeathed to the one who expected it and a son must give up his dreams of University to work on the family farm, family conflicts arise. Set in the north-east of England, The Desert Crop is Catherine Cookson's best.

With Mountain Bikes, you have up-to-date advice on every aspect of bike maintenance from the nuts and bolts of it to tire treads. With full-color action photos and clear diagrams of the latest models, frames, wheels and materials.

The Fur Queen, a wily, shape-shifting trickster, watches over Jeremiah and Gabriel as they fight to survive after being taken away from the magical life they knew in The Kiss of the Fur Queen by Tomson Highway.

Historical Society to hold Annual Meeting

The Elk Point and District Historical Society, which during the past year has undergone a major transformation and now includes groups focusing on the Iron Horse Trail and on posting Elk Point's history on the Internet, will hold their annual meeting on April 20 at 7:00 p.m. at F. G. Miller High School. Memberships for the current year will be available at the meeting. Everyone is welcome to attend and find out more about the Society and its projects.

The Iron Horse Trail group has been successful in working with the County of St. Paul on plans to develop the former CN rail line from Elk Point to Heinsburg as a year-round recreational trail with scenic stops along the way.

The Internet group is a fascinating project for the computer-minded, who are putting Elk Point's Reflections history book and other items of historical significance on the Internet.

The Historical Society is also involved with its sister organization, Friends of the Forts, who work toward promotion and further development of Fort George and Buckingham House historic site.

Other projects which will help to preserve Elk Point's history for future generations to enjoy and cherish are also being considered.

THIS SUNDAY, April 18: The scripture lesson will be from Luke 24: 13-35. This is the account of the reappearance of Jesus to his disciples and his explanation to them of the way in which the prophets had foretold his coming. "This," he said, "is what is written: that the Messiah is to suffer death and to rise from the dead on the third day, and that in his name repentance bringing the forgiveness of sins is to be proclaimed to all nations. NEV

UFA sales down 3.7%

Total sales for UFA in 1998 were $558 million, which is a 3.7 percent decrease from last year due to deflation of $50 million, according to reports from UFA delegate Lawrence Ference, who held an Advisory Council meeting in Elk Point on March 25.

Earnings before

patronage allocation and income taxes were $31.3 million. As a result of the strong earnings, the organization declared a $19 million patronage dividend and a $13.4 million cash pay-out. Cash returned to members over the last five years totalled $60.2 million.

Members' equity at $156.5 million represented a very strong 69 percent of assets, which totalled $225 million.

UFA, one of Alberta's largest farm supply co-operatives with approximately 100,000 active members, operates 34 farm supply stores and 123 petroleum facilities as well as the most widely distributed cardlock network in the province.
